As Our Mary mught be called the Maude Adams of the movies, it seemed inevitable that she should appear in a play that had been presented by Miss Adams, and since the latter star has declined to go on the screen it might be said that the perfect substitute for her has been found in Mary. For Miss Pickford's quaint and piquant playing in the film version of "'Op o' My Thumb," in which Miss Adams scored a hit at the Empire Theatre, is one of the most efficacious antidotes to the

SAFETY PIN FACTORY JARS BLOOMFIELD Victim of Explosion in Lyn-

Residents of That Town and Glen Ridge Object to Influx of Negroes.

The call of the world for more safety pins has been answered by the Consoli-dated Safety Pin Company of Bloomfield, N. J., with the simple expedient of starting another factory in that town. The new factory is at 433 Broad street, on the edge of Bloomfield's best residen-tial section. Furthermore, virtually all the negroes must travel over Baldwin street, where Mayor Sadier lives, and over Warren, Comley, Essex, Morris and Bay streets and avenues, where Bloom-field's and Glen Ridge's nicest folks reside. Moreover, these same negro safety pin makers take their ease in beautiful Brookside Park during their lunch and recess periods.

The residents of Bioomfield and Glen Ridge do not like it. They have set forth their objections in a protest signed by a hundred of the residents of the offended sectors and forwarded to the officers of the Consolidated. They say that it means the concentration of negro colony in a section meant to be exclusively white; that property is de-preciated in value; that the negroes parade the streets in a decidedly objectionable manner and that the "invasion of Brookside Park by negro women factory hands would constitute an aggravated community of the further enjoyment

The Consolidated's answer scoffs at the benefit of all who desire to use it "Anna Ascends," which Miss Brady tried | properly, However, the Consolidated below expense involved and the losses incurred. And by way of a parting shot the Consolidated's reply reads:

"In conclusion we would like to say that Abraham Lincoln considered the welfare of the negro race of sufficient importance to this country and to civil ization to plunge this nation into a ter-rific and bitter civil war for the purpose of giving to them an opportunity to enjoy the benefits and rights of free men, and whether we personally desire them either casually or permanently as neighbors, we believe we must reconcile ourselves to the fact, if we have to, that they are here to stay, that there are eleven million of them and that they are American citizens and have the same rights and privileges to work and enjoy life in this country as any one, so long as they behave themselves and abide by

"Further, if they are to be considered as a social problem we must accept them not as a detestable people but as fellow human beings, and afford them ail the opportunities to which they are entitled.
